At the New York equivalent the bullion in the trade dollar has a gold value of $0.9174, and that if a 412% grain silver dollar would be worth $0.9010." The New York Record states: "The heavy depreciation in silver has been chiefly due to the large imports from Germany of the metal, aggrein sympathy with the depression of the cotton mports from Germany of the metal, aggregating $1,500,000, while the export demand has only succeeded in taking away about $1,000,000 during the same period, and, of course, London has to bear the burden, but she can stand it very well." The St. Louis Times had the following last Thursday: "There was an improved demand reported for southern securities, especially the State binds of Arkansas, Tennessee, Texas and Georgia, which is based on the expectation of an early adjustment of all political troubles in the south, which will repolitical troubles in the south, which will re-sult in bringing prosperity to the people and enable the States to create a sinking fund to pay off eventually their old debts, as sug-gested by the board of arbitration recently organized in New York to consider the public quiet; 12:50, quiet and easy; 1:30, steadier; lebt of the defaulting southern States. RIVER NEWS.

Weather and River Chronicle. The atmosphere was balmy and most en-The atmosphere was balmy and most enjoyable. Not a leaf stirred, and the bright sunshine drew thousands of the denizens of the bluffs out to pleasant promenades on the various thoroughfares. Many wended their way to the bluffs to view the scene of busy life and watch the movements of the incoming and outgoing packets as they bore their precious burdens to and from this great seaport. But the sun went down behind a bank of threatening clouds, and those who read of threatening clouds, and those who read this paragraph this morning may be soothed with the lullaby of the pattering raindrops against the pane. We pray not. We have nothing particular to report about the rivers, and the reader must be content to the and the reader must be content with what can be gleaned from the weather observer's Captains Wise and Moore, of the James W. Gaff, were in their glory last night, on the occasion of the grand hop enjoyed by a cabin-full of their lady and gentlemen friends. Music and dancing ruled the hour until the solemn tones of the midnight bell awakened Billy Collins, the accomplished steward, who took possession of the cabin and set before the guests a repast of luxuries, and delicacies fit. took possession of the cabin and set before the guests a repast of luxuries and delicacies fit for the gods. Of course the company could speak nothing but highest praises of the unlimited hospitality of the officers of the Gaff.

The APPEAL editorial corps were yesterday made the recipients by Captain R. W. Wise, of the James W. Gaff, of an elegant time-keeper of unique design and rather singular mechanism—nothing like anything of the kind ever constructed for numbering the

A close examination of the inner works reveals the maker's name to be J. W. Gaif, known to be the best in the world in the art of manufacturing mainsprings for such wonderful contrivances. The only objection to the machine is that its continual running winds it up forever, and nothing is left but the rude case, and a new instrument has to be sup
